About the Seminar

The rapid advancement of digital technologies has transformed every aspect of society, creating new opportunities and challenges across disciplines. The seminar on "Emerging Trends in Law, Humanities, and Management in the Digital Era" aims to provide a multidisciplinary platform for academicians, researchers, legal professionals, policymakers, industry experts, and students to discuss contemporary developments and emerging issues arising from digital transformation.

The seminar will explore how digitalization, artificial intelligence, big data, cybersecurity, social media, and technological innovations are reshaping legal systems, human values, governance structures, education, business practices, and organizational management. It seeks to encourage critical dialogue on the intersection of technology with law, society, culture, ethics, and management, while promoting innovative research and collaborative solutions.

The seminar aims to foster interdisciplinary understanding and contribute to the development of knowledge that supports responsible, inclusive, and sustainable digital transformation. Through keynote addresses, technical sessions, paper presentations, and panel discussions, participants will gain valuable insights into the evolving digital landscape and its implications for law, humanities, and management in the twenty-first century.

Objectives of the Seminar

01 To examine the impact of digital transformation on legal, social, cultural, and managerial systems.

02 To discuss emerging challenges related to artificial intelligence, cybersecurity, data privacy, and digital governance.

03 To promote interdisciplinary research and academic collaboration among scholars from diverse fields.

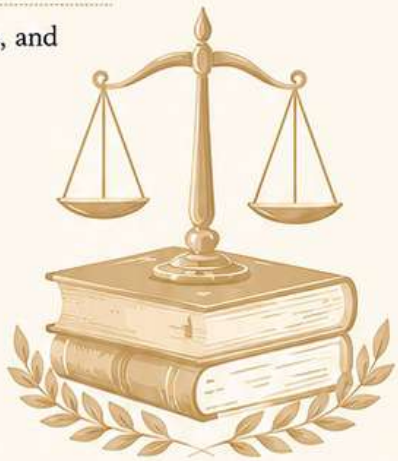

04 To encourage policy recommendations for sustainable and ethical digital development.

05 To provide a platform for sharing research findings, best practices, and contemporary perspectives on digital-era challenges.
